UNTAPPED GIFT: A quiet, unassuming woman asked her pastor whether she could accompany him on hospital visits. When he agreed, she asked whether she could pray for the patients they visited. To his great wonderment, over several weeks the people this woman prayed for seemed to get well, some physically, others spiritually. He asked her, “Do you think you have the Spirit’s gift of healing?” Yes, she had thought so for two years. Why hadn’t she said anything about it before? he wondered. “Because you never asked me, and I didn’t know what to do with it” (Marilyn Chandler McEntyre in Weavings, May/June).
